School of Commerce and Administration

Aim of the School

The Courses in Commerce and Administration were established by the University in 1919 to aid in meeting the demand which exists in Canada for more systematic training for business and public service. A foundation for them had already been built up in the work of the Department of Economics, and particularly in the Courses in Banking established in 1914 by Queen's University in co-operation with the Canadian Bankers' Association. In 1937 the School of Commerce and Administration was established to give more coherent and effective organization to the activities which had been developed during the previous eighteen years.

The work of the School is designed to give the prospective man of business some cultural and professional background; to provide him with a perspective which has been too rarely attained by any but the leaders in present-day business. It is a further object to give the student an adequate grasp of the various techniques now being used extensively. As business becomes more a matter of planning, organizing and accurate analysis and less a matter of mere bargaining, the methods of accurate record and analysis, provided by modern accounting and statistical practice, have become more elaborate and more necessary. Primary emphasis is laid upon the mastery, by the student, of such technical aids and their uses in business and economic analysis. No attempt is made to instruct him in the special technique of individual industries or in the routine phases of business; these the student will obtain much better through his own experience in business than he would through the medium of the class-room.

In keeping with this policy the student will be discouraged from thinking that his college training will obviate the necessity of a probationary period in his chosen work and enable him to begin at or near the top. He will be taught to realize that he must enter the organization which employs him after graduation as a beginner, learning its practical details and its special techniques just like any other beginner, and that the chief value of his college training will come only after the initial period of probation, in a more rapid promotion from routine work to a position of executive and administrative responsibility.

The work of the School, particularly in the last year, is definitely professional in outlook. The aim is to train students for business careers. Consequently students who are looking toward some other profession or who have not chosen a vocation are advised to register in a Course leading to the degree of Bachelor of Arts instead of in a Commerce Course.

Scope and Methods of Instruction

The student's field of study embraces in the earlier years language and literature, mathematics, government, and the elementary study of economics and accounting. Later years include economic analysis, advanced accounting, commercial law and money and banking. Finally, his efforts are concentrated mainly on the more specialized business subjects together with investigation and research and the preparation of a thesis. Each student is required to take mathematics or a modern language for two consecutive years.

The Problem Method. — Particularly in the advanced courses the student is presented with business problems for investigation and analysis. Through these "cases" he becomes acquainted with the facts of the business world and, more important, acquires experience in systematic thinking and analysis. In such fields of study as accounting, commercial law, marketing, business finance, and investments, the "case" or problem method of instruction is extensively, though not exclusively used.

The Commerce Club.—Through the medium of this student organization, students in the School of Commerce and Administration have an opportunity, at fortnightly meetings, of hearing business men and those engaged in public administration discuss problems which arise in their own experience.

Field Work.—In addition to visits to plants in the city of Kingston, students in their final year must be prepared to undertake visits to neighbouring industrial cities for the purpose of inspecting industrial plants there. The total cost of these visits need not exceed $25.00.

Thesis. — Each student in his final year is required to undertake original work in the form of a thesis. As far as possible the student is allowed to follow his own interests in the selection of a thesis subject but to those who have not submitted a satisfactory subject by October fifteenth, one will be assigned arbitrarily. The thesis, bound in final form, must be submitted not later than March thirty-first. (Theses prepared during the summer must be submitted not later than August thirty-first.) In addition to being given instruction in business investigation and analysis, each student will be assigned to an adviser who will direct him. The completed thesis will be submitted to the Department for approval. It will be read by at least two members of the Department in addition to the adviser.

During Session 1950-51 when the graduating class will be abnormally large, the thesis will be optional, and restricted to a selected group of students.

Work during summer vacations. — The long summer vacation in our Canadian universities provides an excellent opportunity for combining practical experience with theoretic training. Assistance is given to students in the various faculties, by the University Employment Service, in securing suitable openings. By such summer work the student prepares himself to derive the largest benefit from his instruction during the regular session. He also serves part of that inevitable apprenticeship in practical life which no theoretic training can render unnecessary. He acquaints himself with the atmosphere of business and gradually making his personal adjustments to his future field of service. Frequently also he is able to utilize his summer work for the study of problems adapted to thesis purposes and for the forming of business relations that prove of value in later life.

Frequently positions open to women graduates in Commerce require training in stenography. Women students in Commerce are advised to take shorthand and typewriting during the summer vacations.

Industrial Relations

The Industrial Relations Department was established in 1937 as a section of the School of Commerce to meet a growing demand for detailed knowledge of the relations between employers and employees. It was created a separate department in 1944. The department:

1. (a) collects data respecting policies, programmes and experience in employer-employee relations, keeps the material up-to-date and classifies it so that it is readily available to students, employers, labour organizations and governments;
- (b) collects current information in the industrial and social security fields;
2. keeps in touch with industrial and labour union organizations so that it may study actual developments;
3. gives instruction to students;
4. prepares reports on subjects of immediate and vital interest;
5. holds conferences and short courses for business executives, personnel managers, industrial relations managers and labour leaders.

Thus the Department combines the work of a library, a clearing house of information and a research bureau. It also participates in the university programme of instruction (intramural and extramural) and provides a centre for the discussion of recent developments.

Students in the School of Commerce who wish to specialize in Industrial Relations are offered the following courses:

- Economics 23 — Industrial Relations,
- Commerce 50a — Industrial Management,
- Commerce 51b — Personnel Administration,
- Commerce 59 — Thesis in the field of Industrial Relations.
- Economics 102 — Graduate course in Labour Problems.

Institute of Local Government

The Institute of Local Government, which was organized in 1944, is a branch of the Department of Political and Economic Science. Its purpose is to give sustained study and analysis to the problems of local government including the relations between the municipalities and the Provincial and Dominion governments. The results of research undertaken by it are made available in bulletins as occasion warrants.

The Institute also publishes from time to time bulletins containing data of interest to municipal governments and generally acts as a clearing house for information about the financial and administrative practices of municipal governments. Instruction in local government is extended and students wishing to prepare themselves for posts with municipalities will find association with the Institute a useful preparation.

OUTLINE OF COURSES LEADING TO THE DEGREE OF BACHELOR OF COMMERCE

Admission

The requirement for admission to the School of Commerce is:

- (a) The Secondary School Graduation Diploma (General Course) including English, a second language, History and Mathematics.
- (b) Grade XIII standing in English, Latin (two papers), or Mathematics (three papers) and two or three other subjects. Students entering with as few as four subjects, that is, English, Latin or Mathematics and two further subjects are required to have not lower than third class Honours standing in at least three of these subjects.

Candidates offering Mathematics as one of the subjects of admission to Commerce should take all three papers of Grade XIII Mathematics.* Candidates entering Mathematics 2 with standing in only two parts of Grade XIII Mathematics must attend a tutorial class and pass an examination in the third part before receiving credit for Mathematics 2.

Grade XIII examinations are held in the following subjects:— Latin, English, Modern History, Mathematics (Algebra,* Geometry, Trigonometry, and Problems), Greek, German, French, Spanish, Music, Physics, Chemistry, Biology.

The pass standard is fifty per cent. in each paper.

Students admitted from commercial high schools who transfer from Commerce to a course in Arts must, before making application for the degree of Bachelor of Arts, make up any of the subjects of Grade XIII that they may lack.

For full particulars of admission consult the Calendar of the Faculty of Arts for 1950-51 or write directly to the Registrar, Queen's University.

GENERAL REGULATIONS

Regulations Regarding Courses

For students registering for the first time in September 1949 or later, the requirements for the degree of Bachelor of Commerce involve at least four years' work from Grade XIII standing in English and four other subjects. The unit is the course, involving three class attendances each week throughout the college session, with due library and laboratory assignments. A class meeting three times a week for one term is counted a half course. Nineteen full courses or their equivalent in half courses are required for the degree. Of these, thirteen are in economic and commerce subjects, and the remainder in general Arts work.

In addition to the regulations below, see General Regulations, Calendar of the Faculty of Arts, 1950-51, pp. 96-101.

*Students from High Schools of Commerce may offer Grade XIII standing in Mathematics of Investment in place of Algebra as part of the requirements in Mathematics.

Candidates for the degree of Bachelor of Commerce must conform to Honours standards. They must offer for degree nineteen or twenty courses, depending on whether they entered with four or five subjects of Grade XIII, with a minimum of fifty per cent. in each general subject, and in each course or half course in Economics, Politics or Commerce of the last three years numbered 10 or higher must make a minimum of fifty-five per cent, with an average of sixty-six per cent.

A candidate for the degree of Bachelor of Commerce must have obtained at least Grade B on Economics 4 before registering in more advanced courses in Economics or any course in Commerce other than Commerce 63. He must have obtained a mark of at least sixty-two in Commerce 63 before registering in Commerce 64.

Candidates who have not attained an average of sixty-six per cent in the honours courses of the second year are advised and may be required to transfer to a Pass Course in Arts.

THE THREE-YEAR COURSE

Students registered in the School prior to September, 1949 or having obtained at the University or elsewhere equivalent credits toward the degree may complete the requirements in three years. For these the requirement is satisfactory standing in fifteen full courses or their equivalent — of which eleven must be in Economics and Commerce and the remainder as specified in general subjects.

Attendance and Exercises

1. Attendance. Students are expected to be present at all lectures and laboratory periods in their courses, and to hand in all essays and class exercises when due.

Deficiency in attendance. Students who have not yet obtained standing in at least five courses since their first registration, are subject to the following regulation:

If during the session they are absent from more than one-eighth of the class and laboratory periods in a subject, they may not take the final examination in that subject; and they are considered to have failed in it. They are subject to the regulations governing supplemental examinations as explained in Sections 4 and 5.

Students who exceed the limit of absences because of illness must submit certificates from the attending physician when asking for consideration by the Faculty.

A record of absences based on monthly reports from Instructors is kept at the office of the Dean of the Faculty.

2. The December and April marks are determined not merely by the results of the examinations but also by the work of the whole term or session, including consideration of class tests, examinations, attendance, and progress.

3. The Faculty may, at any time either during the term or after the close of the term, require any student to withdraw, whose conduct, attendance, work, or progress is deemed unsatisfactory.

Failures and Low Grades

Supplementals

4. (a) Students who fail in any course at the final examination may write a supplemental examination in the following September provided that a supplemental examination is offered in that course and that the student has not lost his year (section 6).

(b) Students who fail in any course may not come up again for examination in that course (except for a supplemental examination as provided in section 4a) without re-registering in the course and repeating the full work.

5. Students who have obtained credit in any course may, to raise their standing, write the examination at any subsequent examination period not later than the third examination period after first passing it. Ex-servicemen and women affected adversely by this regulation may be given consideration by the Board of Studies who will recommend action to the Faculty of Arts.

Loss of Year

6. (a) Students who at the final examination fail in more than two courses are considered to have lost their year and may not write supplemental examinations. Students, who at the beginning of the next academic year lack credit on more than one course or two half courses of the previous year's work are considered to have lost their year.

(b) Students who have lost their year may retain credit only in those courses on which they have obtained at least 62%.

Withdrawal

7. (a) Students who fail in four or five courses at the final examinations are required to withdraw from the Faculty of Arts.

(b) Students who twice lose a year are required to withdraw from the Faculty of Arts.

8. Students, who have been required to withdraw from the Faculty of Arts, may be re-admitted in some subsequent session only if they can give convincing evidence that they can profit from University work.

9. Students, who are re-admitted under Section 8, and those who are admitted after being required to withdraw from another faculty are placed on probation until Christmas. Other students whose work has been unsatisfactory may be placed on probation until Christmas. Students on probation who fail on more than two examinations at the midyear are required to withdraw at that time.

Extramural Work

The elementary part of the work for the degree of Bachelor of Commerce may be taken by correspondence but the more advanced part of the Course must be done in attendance. All candidates for degree must satisfy residence requirements by completing successfully at least two winter sessions or one winter and three summers, or five summer sessions in attendance at the University. The amount of regular winter attendance is determined by extramural and Summer School offerings. In practice, commerce students find it necessary to take three winters in attendance.
